

Take a look at these photos on exhibit. Each one tells a story about an African American contribution to New Mexico. Some photos show families; others show students; all are about dreams for a better future.

Now think about how societies and institutions, past and present, have sought to keep those dreams from becoming a reality. The fight for equality will always be a work in progress. Can you think of ways we can improve society so that all dreams are equally possible?

Using a typewriter, share some of your thoughts. Tape what you wrote to our Black History Wall. Take a photo of what you wrote and post it online.