

ANDREW V. MCFEATERS teaches literature and writing at University of New Mexico-Gallup. His research focuses on Irish studies and modernism. He hikes and bikes on mesas and mountains.

about this book Jerome reflects that the book is not about him but about the author's life and history of his mother and his especially people the species went down. It's not mentioned that the author's mother is the author